The Moscow Urban Renewal Agency is developing an urban renewal plan to help guide development in the downtown area. As a part of the urban renewal plan, a master plan of the old agricultural corridor along South Jackson Street will be created and your input is requested for development of ideas and a vision for this prominent area of Moscow. The Kendig Keast Collaborative (KKC) in addition to working on the rewrite of Moscow's Comprehensive Plan, has been retained to produce a master plan for redevelopment of the area. The Downtown Charrette will give an opportunity for community members to explore and express ideas through sketches, photos, and words on maps of the area. KKC will then develop two alternative master plan concepts that will be available for viewing and comment at the Open House. A final master plan for the corridor will be developed from these community sessions.
